Brawer & Hauptman was selected as one of three design firms to lead a team that would explore how underused religious buildings can be re-envisioned to be vibrant community hubs. This year-long pro bono initiative that paired up Brawer & Hauptman with a West Philadelphia historic Methodist Church (Community Cornerstones) resulted in a comprehensive plan that provided creative, cost-effective ideas that the Church could implement over time, benefitting both the Church and the surrounding neighborhood. Christian provided the design leadership for Brawer & Hauptman.
